THE PEARY EXPEDITION

Dissatisfaction Among the Men Who Have Just Returned.

THE LEADER'S AUTOCRATIC RULE.

W. T. Swain Declares That Lieutenant Peary Did Not Act as a Gentleman Among Gentlemen - A Meager Food Supply-No Place for a Woman,

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 28 .- Since the returning of the Peary expedition from North Greenland on Tuesday last there have been stories of dissatisfaction on the part of the members concerning Peary's conduct of the enterprise, and the quality and the quantity of food he compelled them to eat. A universal reticence has. however, been observed in consequence of the ironclad agreement by which Peary bound them to silence before the expedi tion started. The interview had with Mrs Peary in Washington, in which she said she was at a loss to understand the complaints, has caused much discussion here, and yesterday afternoon the mem-bers of the party held a conference at the Bingham House to consider the advisability of making a statement of their reasons for dispatisfaction.

The conference was held behind closed doors and lasted several hours. At its conclusion the members declined to state what had been decided upon further than that it was not their intention to make answer to Mrs. Peary's statements at this time. The party has not yet disbanded, however, and a further consultation may be Scheaded.

COWARDLY CHINESE SAILORS. It Is Believed That Several Officers Will

SHANGHAI, 28.-The Chinese naval officers now at Port Arthur and Tientsin are squabbling among themselves as to the responsibility of the terrible Chinese losses in the naval battle off the Yalu. A court of inquiry is sitting, and has already found Captain Fong, of the warship Tsi Yuen, guilty of cowardice in the face of the enemy. He was condemned to be beheaded, and it is believed that other officers will lose their heads.

A telegram from the Kung Taotal at Port Arthur received by the commandant at Wei Hai Wei positively accuses the commander of the Chen Yuen of taking flight with his vessel before the battle, at the first sight of the enemy's smoke. Admiral Ting, who remains at Port Arthur, has also telegraphed to Wei Hai Wei, making grave charges against some of his officers. The admiral declares that the Ping Yuen, the Kwang Ting and the Chin Chung, together with four torpedo boats, were up the Yalu river when the battle commenced. There they remained until all the fighting was over. They then sneaked out and made for Port Arthur.

The Chinese have again endeavored to prevent the transmission of all news relating to the war. Three thousand specially selected troops are on their way down the Yang Tse Kiang to join the northern army.

Thieving Chinese Naval Officers.

LONDON, Sept. 25 .- The Pall Mall Gazette publishes a letter from Shanghai, dated Aug. 17, saying that the Chinese navy cannot fight because the ships have only about twelve rounds of ammunition per ship, the regular supply of ammunition having been sold, according to The Pall Mall Gazette's correspondent, by the captains of the Chinese warships. The correspondent adds that one of these commanders actually sold one of his ship's Armstrong guns and went to sea one gun

Six Drowned in Lake Michigan.

MANISTRUE, Mich., Sept 28 - The schooner William Holme, consort of the steamer F. R. Buell, sank off Seul Choix point Tuesday night during the heavy southeast gale. Ail of the crew of seven, except one man, were drowned. There was one woman drowned. The only survivor, Antonio Mingo, floated ashore unconscious on a piece of boat. The dead are C H Hender-on, captain; Annie Cook, 19 years old: Keider, a sailor; Walter, mate; two unknown sailors.

New Badford Strikers Win. NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 28.-The great textile strike in this city was broken yesterday aftermoon, when, at a meeting of the weavers' union, the employes of the Pierce mill were instructed to go back to work. The officials of this corporation have decided not only to pay the old rate of wages, but to furnish specifications of work as demanded by the strikers, mak ing the victory for the latter complete The early resumption of work by all other cloth mills is looked for.

The Storm Somewhat Diminished.

ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 28.-The storm is somewhat diminished today, although heavy gales still prevail. The surf is very rough. A big piece of wreckage, believed to be the keel of a steamer, was washed ashore last evening, and the government life saving crews are keeping a sharp lookout for vessels in distress. The meadows between this city and the main land are submerged, but it is believed that railroad traffic will not be interfered with.

MORE FOREST FIRES

Minnesots Again V.sited, and Many Farm Houses Destroyed.

St. PAUL, Sept. 28 -More serious forest fires are reported from Crow Wing county, and several fatalities are feared. A dispatch from Brainerd says a large part of that county has been laid waste by the fires, which were raging with terrible fury yesterday afternoon, and probably a dozen farmers in the eastern and southern parts of Crow Wing county have lost nearly all their buildings and in some cases everything contained in them. Lon Vincent and his family had a very narrow escape, and his farm house was destroyed. The only thing John Swanson saved was his team. County Treasurer John T. Frazer suffered greatly, all his farm buildings, crops and household furniture being destroyed. Albert La Fond lost considerable grain with his farm buildings. The farms of Joseph Meyers, H. E. Deaton and George Sangrin have also been reported as having been devastated. No authentic estimate of losses is obtainable, but many have lost their entire crops and all their buildings. The flames spread with the greatest rapidity. Many families known to be in the fire belt have not been heard from, and great fears are felt for their safety. The fires are still burning, but the wind Missionaries Needed in Alaska.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 28.—The whaling schooner Nicoline. Captain Tilton, has reached port from Fox Island, Alaska, after a passage of twenty-six days. She brought nearly 15,000 pounds of whale-bone, bear and otter skins and 800 pounds of ivory. Captain Tilton says the government should do some good for the Alaska people, as they are quite intelligent, and very auxious to live like civilized people. The missionaries should be looked after, and good men, and especially women, sbouid go to Alaska.

Alix Failed to Lower Her Record.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 28.—About 10,606 person- witnessed the races at the Columbus Driving park yesterday. The weather was warm and clear, but not warm enough to bring out the mettle of the horses. The track was fast, but too hard. Alix went to beat her record of 2.0334, but the start was a little slow and she landed under the wire in 2.64%. Flying Jib was sent against his record of 2.64 and landed under the wire in 2064. Directly was also sent against his record of 2.07% and finished in # (%) 2.

Storm Damage to Crops.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Sept. 24.-Specials to The News and Courter from various points in the middle and coast region regarding the West India cyclone report considerable damage to corn and cotton and very serious damage to rice, but no loss of life. At Georgetown the damage to the rice crop is estimated at 33 per cent. A large portion of the April planting floated off with the tide, and the June rice is no doubt budly injured.

The Long Congressional Deadlock. WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Sept. 28.-The Republican conferrees of the Sixteenth congressional district adjourned yesterday afternoon until today, after having taken 350 ballots, without result. There is talk of nominating an outside man, if the deadlock is not broken soon. A conferree from Lycoming county says that Hopkins, Lewis and Packer will be candidates on nomination papers, regardless of the action of the conferrees.

Decided Against the Democrats.

TRENTON, Sept. 28 .- The certiorari proceedings brought by Democrats attacking the constitutionality of the act of the last legislature, under which a commission revised the ward lines of Newark, have been dismissed by an opinion filed by Justice Dixon, of the supreme court, which says that "the proceedings brought up for review are legal and should be affirmed." This does not decide the Jersey City case.

The Charges Against Mayor Bemis.

OMAHA, Neb , Sept 28 - Evidence in the impeachment trial of Mayor Bemis on the specifications filed by Councilmen Haskell and Wheeler is all in. The mayor was again recalled, and testified that he acted in good faith when he took steps to keep the members of the Commonweal army from starving, feeling that an emergency existed and that immediate action was necessary.

FITZSIMMONS' OFFER.

He Reiterates His Desire to Fight Jim Corbett.

BUT THE CHAMPION LAUGHS AT HIM

Steve O'Donnell Declares That He Can Prove Fitzsimmons' Inability to Meet Corbett, and Asserts That He Will Himself Challenge the Middleweight.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 28.—Bob Fitzsimmons has mailed a letter to James J. Corbett urging him to sign the articles for a fight before the Olympic club for the $25,000 purse offered by that club. Fitzsimmons offers to meet Corbett in New York and box four rounds, the proceeds to be devoted to charity, and declares if the judges decide he (Fitzsimmons) is not in Corbett's class he will never ask for a match with the champion again. He declares that if Corbett accepts the offer he will make no attempt at a knockout. Fitzsimmons offers, further, to place a side bet of $10,000 a side for a finish fight. LEWISTON, Me., Sept. 28.-Champion James J. Corbett, who appeared here last night in "Gentleman Jack," was first made acquainted with the fact that Fitzsimmons had published a formal challenge to fight him by an Associated Press representative. The champion read the letter aloud to Steve O'Donneil, and when he came to the place where the middleweight pledged himself to not attempt a knockout he roared with laughter.

After he had finished reading the challenge Corbett turned to the Associated Press representative and said: "Of course I expected Fitz would do something of this sort, but he is too ambitious. I will attend to him, however, when the proper time comes, and will answer his letter in a few days.

"I don't propose to fight him," continned the champion, "until he has defeated some one worth mentioning. What's the use of my fighting a middleweight when there are plenty of men who can do him easily. He wants to skip over all the other heavyweights and tackle me." "That's right, Jim." interposed Steve O'Donnell. "I'll right him, and take him anyway be likes." Then, turning to the Associated Press representative, O'Donnell said;

"You just say for me that Fitzneed not go so far. I'll make the same proposition to spar him in New York city that he makes to Corbett, and then if I don't prove that he is out of his class it will be time for him to talk about meeting Jim." "Will you accept his challenge for a finish fight?" O Donnell was asked. "You bet I will," said Steve, "and I can cover his money just as soon as he wishes. In fact, I am coming out with a challenge for him, and he can get all the figh the wants without talking about nighting Corbett."

SENATOR HILL WAITING For the Official Notification Before Declaring His Intentions.

Albany, Sept. 28.—The speculation here regarding the acceptance or declination of candidates nominated by the Democratic state conven ion continues. A peculiar situation confronts Senator Hill. By a resolution of the convention the chairman was directed to appoint a committee of five members to notify members of their selection. Senator Hill being jointly the presiding officer and the selected nominee for governor, could not very well appoint a committee to notify himself. Cierk De Freest, of the state committee, and the secretary in chief of the convention, will appoint the committee. Of course none of the candidates will show discourtery to the apprehended committee by giving their answer to the people before the committee visits them. Senator Hill is resting quietly at his home here. He was in his law office yesterday, but saw only a small percentage of the people who called Storm Damage in Florida.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 28 - Storm news is very meager. Jacksonville is still cut off from communication with south Florida, and since Tuesday not a word has been received from east coast points, where the storm is supposed to have been most severe All the wires leading to the south are down and no trains from that section have come in since Tuesday Nothing has been heard from St Augustine since Tuesday, and there are rumors that the ancient city has suffered greatly. It is certain that the orange crop has been greatly injured, but it is hoped no lives have been lost. In Jacksonville the damage amounts to about $75,000.

The Associated Press Boom.

HOWGATE CAPTURED.

Robbed Uncle Sam While Chief of the Weather Bureau.

A FUGITIVE FOR THIRTEEN YEARS

His Escape from Washington with a Woman Who Afterward Deserted Him. Keeping an Old Book Store in New York When Arrested-Stole $360,000.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28 .- Captain Henry W. Howgate, formerly chief of the weather bureau in Washington, who was disbursing officer as well, was arrested in this city yesterday on the charges of forgery and the embezzlement of $300,000, committed in 1878 and 1879. The arrest is the result of a search which has occupied the attention of the United States secret cervice for over thirteen years.

After having searched nearly the whole country for Howgate, ex-Chief Drummond received information that the fugitive was a dealer in old books and pamphlets in this city. Every book store was visited by detectives, without success. Finally an officer was detailed to watch the auction sales for Howgate. About two weeks ago it was suspected that the fugitive was keeping an old book store in the basement of No. 80 Fourth avenue under the name of Harry Williams. A clerk in the war department at Washington, who had been associated with Howgate in the weather bureau, came to this city and identified him. When arrested Howgate admitted bis identity. He could not furnish bail, and was taken to Ludlow street jail. He will be taken to Washington this evening. Howgate was, when he fled from Washington, an active, black baired man in the prime of life. He is now 60 years old, bent and broken, with gray hair and beard. The story of Howgate's exposure and of his relations with a woman named Nettie Burrill caused a great sensation at the time. For several years be had led a double domestic life in Washington. But a few squares away from the home that contained his devoted wife and the daughter who was to cling to him so determinedly in the dark hours to come be supported a woman, Nettie Burrill, in luxurious style. When the crash came and the exposure of Howgate's dishonesty was followed by the discovery of his domestic duplicity few of his old friends turned from him. At the jail he was treated with more consideration than ordinary male factors. He was so utterly opposed to using the common bath ubs in the jail that his kind hearted guardians relaxed the rules of the institution to the extent of allowing the captain to visit his residence on Thirteenth screet, in order to indulge in lavatory luxuriance, on April 12, 1882. The flicers remained in the sitting room while Howgate went up stairs for his bath.

It is said that Miss Howgate, who posessed an exquisite voice, sang to the guardians of her father and made time pass so pleasantly that an hour clapsed before ther awakened to a proper realization of what they were there for. They asked Miss Howgate to call her father, She was gone a long time, and then came back pale and excited. She could find her father nowhere, she said. They searched the house, and then rushed out and cave the alarm. Captain Howgate by this time had two hours' start. It is thought he was steaming down the river below Alexandria before his daughter had finished singing. He escaped by going out of the rear of the house, when he was supposed to go to the bath room, rear, turned into the exit running out to the street, where a carrage containing Nettie Burrill was awaiting him.

A search was immediately made for him, but he was not apprehended, although it was notorious that communication was readily established with him, when his friends found it necessary, for months after his departure. It was generally believed that Captain

Howgate went down the river immediately upon his escape, and took up his residence in St. Mary's, as it was well known in Washington that he was continually seen in that neighborhod as late as 1887. He then went to New Orleans and remained there until he believed the secret service detectives were after him. Accordingly he took his departure westward and was seen at one or two places on the Pacific coast. For two years past he has been in the east and has made his home in New York city. Nettie Burrill deserted him two years ago. There are just eleven indictments pendng against the cassured man, seven of them charging en-bezzlement, and the others charging hirgery, all brought in during October and November, 1881

Fighting Against Class Discrimination. INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 28 -An important nit was filed in the superior court here yesterday which may furnish an important precedent. Many of these sons, however, do not rattle around in the name they bear. Oliver Wendell Holmes, Jr., is an eminent lawyer and judge in Boston, and he has a war record that any man would be He was a member of the class of '61 in Harvard, but was so patriotic that he could not wait for commencement day. He enlisted in the Fourth battalion of infantry and wrote his class poem while awaiting marching orders at Fort Independence. In July, 1861, he was first lieutenant of infantry, and later was in the thick of the fight, as three wounds proved. At Ball's Bluff he received a ganshet wound in the breast, and when he was a captain at Antietam a bullet plowed a furrow through his neck. His third wound was received near Fredericksburg, and this time a bullet struck him in the heel. In 1863 he was made lieutenant colonel of the Twentieth Massachusents infantry as a reward for his gallant services, and the following year was on the staff of General Wright at Petersburg. After the war he studied law at Cambridge and received the degree of LL B. in 1865. He began the practice of his profession in Boston, was professor for some time at the Cambridge law school and was elevated to the bench of the supreme judi-

MUST SIGN A PLEDGE.

Northwestern . University Students Must Promise to Forbear From Hazing.

but the only pledge the students of Northwestern university are required to sign is a pledge that they will not indulge in the intexicating jets of hazing. This pledge the student must sign, or he will not prove acceptable in the eyes of Henry Wade Rogers, A. M., LL. D., the popular and trainy young president

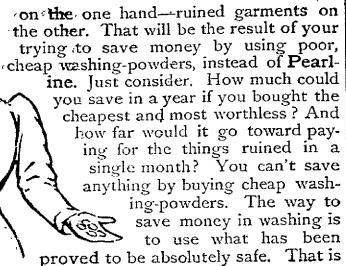

PRESIDENT MENRY WADE ROGERS of the university. If there is one thing President Rogers detests more than another, it is hazing, and during his regime there is no place in the university's curriculum for that great college diversion, the cane rush or any other form of brotal amusement.

but time has laid a gentle finger upon him, and he looks like a man of 30. He was born in Trenton Falls, N. Y., and was adopted by his uncle, Henry W. Rogers, an eminent lawyer of Buffalo. He is keen eyed, quick and dignified and as a scholar of high acquirements. He was educated at Hamilton college and the University of Michigan and then began the study of law in the office of Judge Thomas M. Cooley, ex-chief justice of Michigan and ex-interstate commerce commissioner. He assisted Judge Cooley in preparing his well known legal work on forts and afterward practiced his profession in Minneapolis as a partner of the late Eugene M. Wilson, one of the most eminent members of the Minnesota bar.

Later he became professor of law in the University of Michigan and established such a reputation as a writer of legal topics that he was offered the editorship of one of the leading law journals of the country, but did not accept, He was dean of the University of Michigan law school for eight years and for the past four years has occupied his present high office at the head of one of the largest educational institutions of the United States. In 1876 he married Miss Emma Winner, daughter of Rev. John Ogden Winner of New Jersey.

House of Lords Pays Its Way.

Whatever may be the shortcomings of the house of lords as a political institution, it pays its way. In the last financial year it earned over £25,000 in fees on private bills and judicial pro-ceedings. There is also an item of £126 13s., being fees paid on the introduction of peers. Against this stands a charge of £32 10s., fees due to Garter king of arms. It is interesting to note that before the sum was paid over incorp tax amounting to 18s. 11d. was A few Pennies

WILSON TALKS.

Whene is Wilson; I down insurance business on LaSalle street, in Chicago III., and I live in Evanston, III. Evanston is what was originally a scattering population on a pretty point on Lake Michigan, esteemed years ago far from the laity of Chicago, but now one of the varied towns which may go within it by vote of the population.

I am married and have a wife and one child. That child is a boy (I suppose I should feel the same-schicitude if it was a girl), and I have a father's natural fancies as to what must be the best thing to give that child the right kind of intelligence, and so divert his course that he may succeed in life. I have studied a great deal and so divert his course that he may succeed in life. I have studied a great deal upon the subject. My own experience would not be of great value, because I have succeeded only to the limit of the average man and am barely established; still, I own the house and lot upon which I live, and am feeling perfectly safe in meeting the exigencies of the year. I want the boy to take a broader view than I did to be a bigger may in the world. I have studied how to teach him to do that, and he has done pretty well, as far as the preliminaries go. Now, I have thought over what I should cay to him and have sometimes been puzzled. I could not very well tell him what to do. I wanted to tell him what I needed but what I did not learn myself when I was of his age, and what my father did not know how to tell me, or else self when I was of his age, and what my father did not know how to tell me, or else was not shoughtful enough to do so. I wanted to tell him how to follow the example of those who have succeeded at the present time and under the circumstances which ordinarily affect a young man struggling in this Republic established on this comparatively new world to-day. I wanted to tell him just what he had better do to get along well, and to point out to him what had been done by the people who were successful at the present time.

Of course, the record of the people of any time past would not be of so much value, because circumstances must necessarily have been different when they were give. I feel confident, though, that if I could learn, some way and somehow, what the people who are so successful to day have done and how they did it, I could give to my key such advice as would make his own life at least as far removed from fail-are as justified by the natural ability he may possess. I looked around for some authority which I might consult in order to give him the facts most essential with this idea of mine in mind, but I could find none until I discovered that a great publishing firm in Chicago had decided to bring out a book giving the photographs of all the people who are prominent in America to-day. Here was what I wanted. The book, as I have learned, is going to be published in 16 parts, 16 pages to each, with a recent photograph on each page of some active leading, t merican man or woman of to-day, while underneath appears the story of that same person's like—the story telling what that person did, and how the ends attained were eventually accomplished. Here was what I wanted; here was what I needed in various ways; here was what I was certainly seeking in order to obtain the information with which to educate my boy ank secure for him that knowledge which will give him a source of thought and make him prominent in the world.

I have the first sheets of this work. It is a graphic story of America's Greatest Men and Women, told in each instance on a single page underneath a photograph of recent date, which conveys to the eye an idea of what that person is. To me the photograph tells even more than the suggestive record beneath; and yet it is odd how in each instance the correct story corresponds with the expression upon the five which is reproduced in the portrait above. I do not know how the series will end. I know very little about this new feature of the newspaper people; I know nothing about the publishers and their expectations, but I do know this: that if the nothing about the pholishers and their expectations, but I do know this, that if the series so begun should be continued to its practical, ordinary good sense end—and I don't care whether that will include 200 or 200 of America's Greatest Men and Womer, which is the title of the book—I do know this, that for the ordinary, active and alert husiness man—I will certainly say far more for the student or the literary man, or the politician or the statesman—for all these I will say it will be simply the most valuable and the most remarkable book produced in modern history wonder is that some one has not thought of it before. Yet no one seems to have done so since the days of Plutarch. Plutarch knew something. That shrewd old fellow knew that all who would get out of the drift, all who would accomplish great things, wanted to know every detail of the lives of those who had better luck or more courage or a broader brain than their fellows; but 1 am no authority on these points. I only know that there is produced a second Plutarch's Lives, that its biographies are shrewd, graphic and curt, and written without bias and without prejudice. I only know that there was a Plutarch—God bless the old fellow—and that there is this modern work.

This is the work I am going to give to my boy. I am going to make him read it thoroughly. The work is announced as consisting of 16 Parts, with 16 pages and 16 photographs in each part, and when bound, the whole series will make a great volume of 256 pages, the like of which has never been equaled. It is the story of the personal character of the men and women who are making the nation's history at this particular time. What a work this is! Do you imagine that I would miss it for my boy, or, incidentally, for myselt?

REMEMBERED BY A MISER.

Mirs. T. De Witt Talmage's Kindness Repaid by a Legacy of $13,000.

n appropriately on the way construction of the process of

Mrs. T. De Witt Talmage, the talented wife of the famous Brooklyn divine, was recently sur-

left Dover, N. H., and settled in Brooklyn to rid herself of rel atives who were after her money, as she subsequently told her neighbors. She was a constant reader of Dr. Talmage's sermons and called upon Mrs. Talmage, who treated her kindly, advised her to go to a hospital and occasionally called upon her. Miss Lord lived in a very miserly manner and often went hungry, it is said, rather than spend money for food. Her eating utensils were a broken knife and a cracked plate, and an old scapbox served in lieu of a table. Not long ago she became ill and was attended by the Talmage family physician. She died a short time ago, and it was then learned that she had willed Mrs. Talmage her

Mrs. Talmage was Miss Susan Whitemore of Greenpoint, N. Y. She heard Dr. Talmage lecture in the Greenpoint Dutch Reformed church early in 1863 and was introduced to him by his brother, Rev. G. Talmage. A few months later, on May 7, young Talmage and Miss Whittemore left the same church man and wife

The great preacher was then but little known, and his wife started with him at the bottom of the ladder of fame. She has proved a wonderfully capable and valuable helpmeet and for many years has relieved the doctor of the petty cares and annoyances of business. She opens all his mail, answers his business letters and destroys all communications that might amony him. If she were a man, she could quite appropriately be called his "right hand man," for she plans much of his work, makes his pastoral, social and business engagements, lays out the routes of his frequent journeys, procures tickets and staterooms, and, in short, is the most valuable private secretary that such a great divine could possibly have. As the doctor often receives anywhere from 100 to 200 letters a day, it is easy to imagine what an enormous amount of work Mrs. Talmage cheerfully does daily for her world famous husband.

THE SOLENT'S YACHT QUEEN.

Mrs. Schenley Races Her Own Boats and Does Not Mind a Ducking. The most talented woman at the tiller in all England is Mrs. G. A. Schonley, who not only owns numerous yachts, but is ready for a brush with a brother yachtsman at any time. She knows about all there is to be known about the sport, and when her yachts race she takes personal command and handles the tiller herself. She learned the art of boat sailing from her father, Captain J. W. Hughes, one of the founders of the Yacht Racing association. Her husband is also an enthusiastic yachtsman and is a member of the Royal Yacht squadron, and when the racing sea-on is over the couple go on a long cruise in their big yacht, the God-

Mrs. Schenley was master of her own eraft for the first time in 1889. Her boat bore the peculiar name of Thief, but it had very poor success in getting away with plunder, despite the fact that it was designed by the famous Watson. Out of 16 starts the Thief only succeeded in pilfering one winning flag. In 1801 Mrs. Schenley had Designer Payne build her the Windfall, and during the season the fair daughter of Neptune raced her new yacht in 40 events, captured 20 first prizes and 12 others and went into winter quarters with the prestige of having sailed the fastest five rater in England. During the races Mrs. Schenley was invariably at the helm, no matter whether the wind blew great guns or only came in capfuls, no matter whether the sun shone bright or the rain descended in torrents. This year Mrs. Schenley created a great sensation in the Solent with her wonderful five rater, the Flat Fish. This boat was designed by Mr. Soper in a single night and was built with great rapidity. Mrs. Schenley can swim like a duck, and while she does not relish being capsized she has been overboard so many times that such an incident excites her very little. In addition to being a famous yachtswoman, Mrs. Schenley has distinguished herself with the rifle and shotgun. She has killed many deer and wild boar and can bring down a duck on the wing with neatness and dispatch. Her boats are painted red above the water line and white below and make a remarkably picturesque appearance in a race.

Trial of the Benson Fish Spearing Case-Other Notes. Correspondence Argus and Mercurz.

-The case of the People against H. C. Benson, of Middletown, charged with the illegal spearing of trout on the night of July 21st, was called before Justice Darbee and a jury Sept. 25th, at 10:30 a m. The following jurors were drawn to serve: Peter Lindsey, Wm. Reed, Warner E. Sprague, Chas. McAdams, Jefferson Campbell and Orin P. Sprague. A number of witnesses for the people were called during the afternoon. The first witness called after supper was Hob Ferden, who did not answer to his name. The court sent the constable to hunt up Hob. The constable returned in a few minutes and stated to the court that he had found his man but he was so drunk he could not walk. The Justice ordered him brought into court. The first thing Hob wanted to know was if he was in York State or Pennsylvania. Finally the court decided it was a bad case of drunk and that Hob was not able to testify and the case was adjourned to 8 a. m. next morning. About 9 o'clock the defense took up its side of the case and a number of witnesses, who were with the spearing party, swore positively that there were no trout speared, and after dinner the case was ably summed up on both sides and went to the jury about 3 o'clock. The jury wrangled and wrestled with the case until 9 o'clock and then came into court and asked to have the complaint read which the court did and they retired again. There seemed to be a "hard head" on the jury who wanted to convict the defendant. The court room was crowded with auxious ones, waiting for the verdict. At 10 o'clock the jury marched into court and said they had agreed. You could have heard a pin drop, it was so still. The foreman announced in a loud distinct voice, "not guilty." The crowd clapped their hands and cheered, and exclaimed "it's a right verdict." The people up here, who have made the

DEMOCRATIC NOMINATIONS. For Governor,
DAVID BENNETT HILL. For Lieutenant-Governor,
DANIEL N. LOCKWOOD.

For Judge of the Court of Aopeals, WILLIAM J. GAYNOR

and we win!"

The Lockport Sun, enthusiastic over the nomination of Hill, thus defines the issues of the campaign: "Brains against boodle, youth and vigor against senility and dotage, commanding ability against commanded debility. The fight is on

From all parts of the State comes the cheering news that Democrats. forgetting factional differences, hail the nomination of David B. Hill with enthusiasm and are preparing for active and aggressive campaign work, confident of victory on election day.

Judge Beattie, who caused it to be announced some months ago that the county judgeship, at $1,500 a year, had no attractions for him and who once went so far as to say he would not be | tion. Major Hinckly, Chairman of a candidate for renomination, has thought better of it and says he is willing, yes, anxious to go on the ator A. J. Parker, of Albany, and bench for another term.

David B. Hill was Governor for eight years. He was one of the ablest and most successful chief magistrates the State has ever had. His administration was clean, honestprudent and economical, free from scandal and above criticism. The people have confidence in him and will re-elect him to the office he filled so well.

Chairman Murphy, of the Democratic Committee of Rockland county, has been ordered to appear before Judge Dykman, Saturday, and show cause why he should not be punished for contempt of court for disregarding the mandamus served on him, Saturday, requiring the county caucus for the election of State conwention delegates to vote by ballot. Mr. Murphy says he ignored the mandamus because he supposed it had never been near a judge, but had been cooked up by Frank P. Demar est, as a trick to gain a point in the convention. Judge Dykman is not as familiar with the ways of Rockland county politicians as Mr. Murphy and it is probable that Mr. M. will have difficulty in convincing the Judge that he was not guilty of contempt of court but only a little"more fly" than he thought Frank Demarest was trying to be.

The Republican State Committee ordered the Republican majority in the Constitutional Convention to vote in favor of submitting the revised constitution as a whole, hoping in this way to secure the a toption of the unfair and partisan apportionment section. As will be seen by our dispatches the Republicans in the convention were unwilling to jeopardize what was really good in the convention's work by coupling it with the apportionment section, which they knew would be made a political issue by the Demoerats. On the final decision of this question of submission depended the fate of the convention's work. The people would have rejected it all rather than submit to a basis of apportionment that gives a rural Re publican twice the representation in the Legislature that is accorded to a city Democrat.

The Republican Congressional Committee has allied itself with bigotry and intolerance and is circulating, under Congressional frankes copies of a characteristic A. P. A. epeech made on June 7th by Representative Linton, of Michigan, in which the Cathelic church and Catholics were bitterly assailed. The records of the House and Senate folding rooms show that 2,379,500 conies of this speech have been placed to Linton's credit, most of which were printed in New York and the balance in Washington. The Congressional Committee, wishing to shirk the responsibility of circulating this document, is not sending it out from its headquarters, but from a private house in Arthur Place. Most of the circulars have been sent West, but many thousand have been ordered for distribution in New York and the New England States, where the Republicans hope to secure votes by appealing to un-American and unchristian prejudice, and to ignorance and hate.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION Apportionment and Canal Articles to Be Submitted Separately. BY UNITED PRESS.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 28.-The Republican delegates to the Constitutional Convention caucused again, to-day, but were unable to agree on the method of submitting the revised constitution to the people,- whether as a whole or by sections. The Democratic caucus decided to issue a separate address to the people and passed a resolution asking Democrats to refuse to serve on the majority committee preparing an address to the people. The Constitutional Convention, this morning, by a vote of ninety-five to forty-five, adopted the constitution as revised.

LATER. The Republican delegates decided, this afternoon, that the amendments should be substitued as follows:

New apportionment and canal improvement amendment each separately, and the other amendments as a whole.

Thomas M Hyatt.

Thomas M. Hyatt, the well known painter, died at 10:35 o'clock, last night, at his residence, No. 31 Little avenue, after an iliness of several months, aged fifty-four years and fourteen days.

Mr. Hyatt was stricken some time ago with lead poisoning, and later dropsy developed, the immediate cause of death, however, being heart

Deceased is survived by his wife and three daughters, the youngest of whom is tweive years of age.

Mr. Hyatt was a member of Gen. Lyon Post, No. 266, G. A. R. He was a member of Co. D, 124th Regiment, and served in the war of the Rebellion from Sept. 5, 1862 until the regiment was mustered out of the service June 3, 1865.

Mr. Hyatt was an ardent Democrat and was appointed substitute carrier at the Mid .letown post office by Geo. H. Thompson, while he was postmaster. When Capt Dorrance became postmaster at the beginning of Harrison's administration he bounced Mr. Hyatt, for Republican gratitude to old soldiers turns to hate if an old soldier is a Democrat. About a year ago Mr, Hyatt asked for an investigation of his case by the post office department and it having been found that his dismissal by Postmaster Dorrance was unwarranted and in violation of the rules of the department, it was ordered that his name be placed on the eligible list, after co pliance with the civil service price. rules and regulations. But those rules were a barrier that Mr. Hyatt could not overcome for he had passed the mmit of age prescribed by them for carriers and so the civil service humbug worked a cruel wrong to a competent, faithful, worthy man, a prave soldier and a good citizen.

The funeral will be held from his late residence Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The services will be conducted by Elder Benton Jenkins. The interment will be in the family plat in the Phillipsburgh Cemetery.

SCHUBERT CLUB CONCERTS

Three Concerts to Be Given During the Winter With the Help of Outside Talent-Subscribe for Tickets

The ladies of the Schubert Club are trying to prepare a musical treat for the public, next winter, by arranging to give a course of three concerts. The concerts, as proposed, will be given by the Schubert Club, assisted by outside talent, as follows: The first concert.-The soloists are to be the Schumann Male Quartette of New York city. The second concert will consist mainly of instrumental music by the Bee hoven String Quartette of New York city.

The third concert will consist of a miscellaneous programme with Miss Hilke, soprano, and others not yet decided upon.

In order to carry out this programme it will be necessary to have a certain number of subscriptions. The ladies have placed the tickets for the course at the low figure of $1.50 for the three concerts. As far as possible the ladies are solleiting subcriptions, but they are unable to see every one and would, therefore, ask the people intending to subscribe to call at either Mrs. Sweezy's, No. 20 Wickham avenue.or Mrs. Douglas's, No. 38 South street, where subscription lists will be found.

She was in such a condition that we had to been terribly afflicted with nervousness, and had lost the entire use of her right arm. She was in such a condition that we had to been terribly afflicted with nervousness, and are positive but for an invaluable remedy she would have had that terrible affliction. We had employed physicians, but she received no benefit from them. The first of last August she weighed but 75 pounds, and although she has taken only three bottles of Nervine she now weighs 105 pounds; her nervousness and symptoms of St. Vitus dance are entirely gone, she attends school regularly, and studies with comfort and ease. She has recovered complete use of her arm, her appetite is splendid, and no money could procure for our daughter the health Dr. Miles Nervine has brought her.

SHE MARRIED BOTH.

Mr. Wilberforce Trott, lawyer, of the firm of Lunkenstein & Trott, was the picture of prosperity and contentment, sitting in his office in the most luxuriantly appointed office building in town. His private office, where we find him, was a poem in hard wood and stucco, but its spick and span cleanliness denoted its newness. In fact, Mr. Trott had not always occupied quarters like these. Indeed as he sat in his rotary chair, puffing the smoke from a Colorado maduro with a sultanic air of limitless wealth, Mr. Trott's elegant surroundings bore the gloss of a week's existence and not a day more. Not that he wore the new conditions with any the less grace on that account, however. Any one to have observed him critically would have acknowledged the aristocratic repose of his regular features and the exquisite taste of his fashionable apparel. But the fact remains that Mr. Trott a week before had been a struggling young attorney with an inchoate practice and an unreliable sequence as to meals.

As there are no such things as fairy wands to change hungry lawyers into well fed barristers, the truth may as well be admitted-Mr. Trott had hit the races. The $10,000 retainer from a delightfully mysterious corporation in the west, which he assured his friends was the basis of his new magnificence, was in reality a winning of that amount on cluster horses upon whose combined speed he had made a bet after the manner current among the poolrooms. For all this Mr. Trott was by no means a "sport." He was unquestionably a young man of talent who would be heard from one of these days, and who knew what it meant to "toil terribly." The reason that we do not find him at work with his books directly concerns our interest in this lucky youth, for Mr. Trott's thoughts were floating back over five long years of professional vicissitudes, as dreamily as the smoke that curled aloft over his blond head, until they rested upon a face of dark, healthy beauty, surmounted by curling locks as black as the tender eyes whose depths he had once celebrated in a feeble quatrain, with the opinion that they rivaled the glories of a starlit night. He had truly been desperately in love with Alice Monroe, a fact that had been fully appreciated by that dainty little despot, who not only accepted all his attentions in the way of theater tickets, balls and bouquets, but pouted for more. All of these things had been the despair of poor, young Mr. Trott, who wondered how he was ever to marry a girl whose trivial expenses per week exceeded his income at the bar per month. To render the situation even more poignant she repeatedly declared that the man she married would have to have money. In her heartless opinion love in a cottage was unqualified bosh. Often he had exclaimed to the four walls of his dingy

"She is vain, flaunting, extravagant and unworthy an honest fellow's toil." On every fine Sunday afternoon, for her sweet sake, he had hired a yellow cart and a large black horse with a stride like the course of empire, whose tan colored harness was the swellest thing that graced the Clifton drives on that day. The swellest? Alas, no! There was one rig that excelled that of Mr. Trott, even as the white glory of the diamond excels the dull gray of the topaz. And in that rig sat the bete noir of Mr. Trott-the one being on earth whom he hated with the cheerful, cordial hate of a lover for a rival.

The name of this party was Messerschmidt, a cool, imperturbable gentleman, the unrufiled impudence of whose small, steady eyes had taken Mr. Trott's measure on the night that they had first met in Miss Monroe's parlor and were ever since noting the details of Mr. Trott's suit with a stolid Teutonic amusement that betokened their owner's confidence in his own supremacy. As a rival Mr. Messerschmidt was indeed peculiarly dangerous in the possession of a gigantic soap factory, inherited from a simple minded parent who would have turned in his grave with astonishment had he seen what his son had done for the old concern since its founder's death, for the plant had undergone the mysterious process known only to the subtle promotor who capitalizes a small enterprise into a colossal one by the hocus pocus of the "street."

Never in his life had Mr. Trott claimed the society of the capricious Miss Monroe on one of those bright afternoons but what Mr. Messerschmidt could be seen in his gorgeous turnout, riding insolently alongside or else taking the road in a manner even more inselent just in front. This gentleman's presence was not only obtruded upon them at these times, but he seemed to divine by a diabolical instinct just when and where to find them together. If Mr. Trott took Miss Monroe to the theater. the other party invariably had a scat nearby which he would change for one immediately next to the couple and engage them in conversation with a mild, insinuating assurance that used to irritate the young lawyer to the point of insanity. When he took Miss Monroe to the Art museum-a favorite ruse of his to get her away from possible intruders -his ubiquitous rival was there also, snave, calm, entertaining, agonizing!

Just why Miss Monroe tolerated this insidious personage had been more than Mr. Trott could understand. She averred that he bored her, and that she was disgusted with his social stupidity, but Mr. Troit noticed that she displayed far more cordiality toward him than was consistent with these assertions. pable fact one evening, she petulantly admitted that the only obtsacles that lay between her and the omnipotent Messerschmidt was his name and his business. She did not fancy becoming a queen of society under the title of a soap factory that had to have its works extended in order to make room for the name on the buildings. She would much rather marry the man who had become the most celebrated jurist of his time. Saying this, she had looked wistfully at the modest Mr. Trott, who had been trying to convince her for several weeks that such was his brilliant destiny; that he was, in fact, already on the highroad to success and revenue. As his mind dwelt on that scene Mr. Trott's visage lost some of its tranquil contentment on this morning as he sat in the office, dreaming of what might have been, for he rather blamed Providence for having failed to place him on the supreme bench at 23.

Accidentally his eye rested on the polished oak cover of his typewriter in the corner, and he smiled bitterly at the associations conjured up by that implement of modern correspondence. Well he remembered a certain morning in early June when Miss Monroe took it into her capricions head to visit him at his palatial quarters—as he had represented them to her in order to keep pace with the plutocratic Messerschmidt. As ususal, that worthy was tagging placidly at her side.

Mr. Trott shuddered with retrospective horror as he thought of the hideous catastrophe of that visit and pictured the scene before him. There was Alice, as blooming and richly handsome as a Jacqueminot rose, radiating a delicate perfume, like the flower itself, which fairly intoxicated the young lawyer. The complaisant and phlegmatic Messerschmidt near by wore his usual smile of vacant urbanity, but in his small gray eyes shone the light of a demoniacal triumph, and as he watched Alice sweep the office with her keen eyes and gather in every shabby detail of the office, from the bare floor to the dilapidated desks, he visibly exulted at the disgust in her countenance. Then she spoke. She had just dropped in to pay her respects as she passed the building. She was delighted to find his quarters so very comfortable looking! Then Messerschmidt sniffed at the atmosphere like a warhorse that scents the aroma of battle afar. Unerringly those little gray eyes fastened upon the cover of Mr. Trott's typewriter. 'What make of tpyewriter do you prefer, Mr. Trott?" asked Mr. Messerschmidt, innocently raising the cover and disclosing-not a typewriter, but the meager and unsightly remains of some corned beef and cabbage, on which

Mr. Trott had been dining. That had been five years ago, and Mr. Trott had not tasted a dish of corned beef and cabbage since. The odor of that barbarous mixture used thereafter to make him both sick at the stomach and sick at heart—he, who had once been so fond of it!

Messerschmidt married her that fall but Mr. Trott had never called upon them since the event.

him and exclaimed:

"Hang it! What do I care? I'll hunt her up and call for the sole purpose of showing her that"-

His vehemence came to an abrupt stop. He started erect and listened like a man transfixed to the sound of a soft, anxious voice in the other office that was inquiring:

"Is this a lawyer's office?" "Yes, madam," returned Mr. Trott's partner affably. "What can we do for

"I wish to get a divorce," said a voice, more timidly still and trembling on the verge of tears. "My husband is a wretch"-

Mr. Trott interrupted the speech, radiant, precipitate, his voice vibrating with unmistakable joy. "Alice!" he cried as he opened the door with a rush. The young lady rose in astonishment at the figure before her.

"Is it possible?" she faltered. He took her hand and drew her inside his office with gentle force, leaving his mystified partner staring speechlessly at the vacated seat. "What has he been doing to you, Alice?" cried Mr. Trott, holding her hand and looking as vindictive as a Cor-

"He's been deserting me," she said. "What, that harmless looking, moon faced idiot!"

"Was a horrid, despicable scoundrel!" retorted Mrs. Messerschmidt, with appropriate tact. And then, while Mr. Trott listened and held her hand, she poured forth a tale of such heartrending cruelty that he wept also. "Did you ever hear anything like it, Wilber?" she asked appealingly, contracting his name as she used to do when he had pleased her. Mr. Trott replied with an impulsive embrace and an unexpected kiss. "But I am Mrs. Messerschmidt!" she exclaimed in demure alarm, drawing

'That's so!'' said Mr. Trott soberly. The disability will have to be removed before a prior courtship can be reinstated—ahem! By the way, Alice, have you seen my new typewriter?" uncovering the machine with a mischievous grin. "What do you think of it?" "It doesn't look as palatable as the old one, Wilber," she said, laughing and drying her tears.

"But it isn't nearly as embarrassing," he returned. "Your petition for absolute divorce shall be prepared upon itwithout alimony-for I wouldn't touch a cent of his oleaginous money, confound him!" "Just as you say, Wilber," she said resignedly, dropping her eyes, with a And Mr. Trott's partner in the outer Strange Discrimination in a Saloon Reeper's Bequest to Charity-A Great Railroad's Economics-Working for the Gas and Electric Light Companies.

A Boston saloon keeper, named Durkee, who died not long ago, leaving an estate of $1,000,000, after bequeathing legacies to relatives and friends, directed that the greater portion of his estate should be vested in a fund to provide a home for dependent natives or descendants of natives of Franklin county, in which he was born and reared, and for the orphan children of that county. Habitual drunkards are not to be admitted to this home, built with this money made by making drunkards. It would have been more in accordance with the fitness of things If this rich saloon keeper had left his pile to found a home for drunkards, instead of barring them out from a share in his benevolence.

Railroad officials have long complained that employes, by their lack of care and reckless use of railroad property, have added a needless and very heavy item of expense to the cost of operating a road. On a great system, like the Pennsylvania, the waste of oil, coupling links, coupling pins, and engine tools and fixtures amounts to a very large sum every year, and the managers, knowing that much that is now wasted might as well be saved, have decided to make an effort to hold employes to a stricter accountability. Storekeepers have been ordered not to honor requisitions for engine supplies unless the requisition is indorsed by the engineer and the old tools turned in or a satisfactory explanation given for their loss or destruction. It is also proposed to make firemen responsible for oil cans, torches, lamps, etc., by giving a premium if they are kept in use for a year and making them pay for them if they are lost or destroyed by personal neglect.

- It is two weeks ago since early closing came to an end "said a North street business man to me, yesterday, "and as I cipher it out merchants and their clerks have been working two hours more a day for four days in the week, for the Gas and Electric Light Companies. I doubt if the profits of the evening trade done by all the stores on this street, since we went back to long hours, will pay the extra expense for lighting the stores, and the trade they have had nights they would have had during the daytime if early closing had been continued. Of course a merchant has to keep open if his competitors in trade do so, but if we were wise we'd keep up the six o'clock closing system throughout. the year. We'd save money by it and spare ourselves and our clerks We ought to give ourselves time to keep up the acquaintance with our ⁷amilies which we had a chance to form during the summer."

Serdict Against the Susquehanna and the Paterson Railway Co.

At Paterson, yesterday, a verdict of $6,000 was randered in Matilda R. Claxton's suit against the Paterson Railway Co. and the Susquehanna and Western for injuries sustained in the bour. He was taken to Thrall n June, when an electric car was run down at the Riverside crossing of the Susquehanna. The judge charged that the Susquehanna admitted liability when it acknowledged that the gates were up. The railroad companies will have to settle between the mselves their respective liability.

Success of One Woman's Work. [SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS]

From all sections of this great country. No city so large, no village so small, but that some woman has sent us her words of joyful thanks for health restored. From San Francisco Mrs. Detwiler writes, from her Laurel Ave. home, that she unwisely left her room all too soon when her baby was born. The result was an aggravated case of dis-placement of the womb that wholly prostrated her.

The doctors tried medicines, apparatus, and she suffered everything. "I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Theeffect was wonderful, and, thanks alone to her, I am nowwell. ' Mrs. Kate Morris, 100 Mulberry St., New York, says:

"For years I suffered with womb trouble. I was so sick and nervous that I could not stand or sit, the pains through my back made me crazy. I tried several doctors but found no relief. I was advised to try your Vegetable Compound. I did, and to-day I am a well

From far-away Texas comes word from Mrs. Jennie Arthur of the town of Taylor:
"I did not know what rest was for months. I was so dizzy and faint at times

I thought I was dving, and, oh, how my back did ache! I am a living witness of the miraculous of effects Mrs. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Re- $_{\mathrm{came}}$ with it at once. Isleep allnight, and am now as well as ever in my life."

From the great state of Pennsylvania, Mis. L. Travis, L. Travis, of Thurlow, tells a sinular story of utter misery resulting from womb trouble: all the fearful results of this dread trouble was upon her when the Lydia Pinkham Vegetable Compound came to change the whole current of her life, and she ones up her letter by declaring. "I owe all to you." Thousands of other names are here. Let your faith lead you to the certain remedy for all your troubles. Your druggist has it for you.

SHOT HINSELF IN THE FOOT-

A Young Man Badly Wounded by the Accidental Discharge of a Revolver

DeWitt Brown, aged twenty years, stepson of Mr. Charles Coleman, who conducts a billiard and pool saloon on West Main street, received a painful and serious injury to his right foot, last night, by the accidental discharge of a revolver which he was attempting to place in the hip pocket of his trousers. The ball, which was of 32 calibra, entered his foot at the heel and was imbedded Hospital in the patrol wagon and Drs. Douglas and Pillsbury, after more than as hour's work, extracted the bullet, the patient meanwhile being under the influence of ether. The wound is a dangerous one and amputation may become necessary.
